Report on E-Journalism and Social Media

Add on Course on " E-Journalism and Social Media " :

Conducted By : Pinakpani Ghosh in association with Department of Bengali

Session: 2018 – 2019

Objective of this course:

A course on E-Journalism and Social Media can serve as a valuable tool in preparing individuals for the evolving landscape of modern journalism and communication. By focusing on the intersection of journalism and digital platforms, this course can help achieve several objectives:

1. Enhancing digital journalism skills: With the rapid growth of online platforms, it is crucial for journalists to adapt their skills to the digital realm. A course on E-Journalism can provide comprehensive training on various aspects of digital reporting, including writing for the web, creating engaging multimedia content, and optimizing content for search engines. Such skills are essential for journalists to effectively navigate the digital ecosystem.

2. Understanding social media as a journalistic tool: Social media platforms have become integral to the modern news cycle, with news organizations relying on them for distribution and audience engagement. A course on social media can teach aspiring journalists how to leverage these platforms effectively, including understanding algorithms, building a social media presence, and engaging with audiences in a responsible and ethical manner.

3. Promoting media literacy and critical thinking: In an era of misinformation and fake news, it is crucial for journalists and the general public to develop media literacy and critical thinking skills. A course on E-Journalism and social media can educate individuals about the importance of verifying information, identifying reliable sources and critically analyzing online content. This objective promotes responsible journalism and equips individuals with the tools to navigate the digital landscape with discernment. Fostering ethical and responsible journalism: The course can emphasize the ethical considerations specific to digital journalism and social media usage. It can cover topics such as privacy concerns, handling user-generated content, avoiding plagiarism, and maintaining objectivity in an era of online biases. By instilling ethical principles, the course contributes to maintaining the credibility and integrity of journalism in the digital age.

4. Encouraging innovation and adaptability: The digital landscape is constantly evolving and journalists need to embrace innovation and adapt to emerging technologies. The course can expose students to emerging trends and tools in E-Journalism and social media, such as data journalism, immersive storytelling, and mobile reporting. By fostering a mindset of innovation and adaptability, the course prepares individuals to navigate future developments in the field.

INTRODUCTION

Hello! I'm a media professional with 25+ years of experience across print, audio-visual, and online platforms. I have been working in vernacular [Bengali] media industry since 2000, because my passion for Bengali language, literature and culture is tremendous.

Apart from conventional activities as a journalist, I have developed my skills around different niches that can add extra values to any organizations. My work has helped me earn several accolades till date! Presently I'm associated with ABP Group, one of the leading media conglomerates in India.

RECENT ROLES

☐ Special Correspondent: ABP Online since Apr 2021. Joined this organization in Sep 2020 as Chief Sub Editor. But subsequently promoted to the post of Special Correspondent for excellent performance and won "In-House Best Journalist" award.

Guest lecturer of Calcutta University of Department of Journalism and Mass Comunication since 2017.
