Session : 2022 – 2023

About the Conductor of this course : Sadhan Chattopadhyay is one of the most prominent writer in Bengali Literary world. He is known for his works like ‘Steeler Chonchu’ a critically acclaimed short story which takes the literary world by storm. He conducted this course about the Eco Fiction in Bengali Literature. He told students about the progression of Eco fiction through times and what Eco fiction is and how can one develop the skills to make one for himself. He shares his experience and his journey around the clock and how he introduced eco fiction to the new generation of Bengali writers.

What is Eco-Fiction?

Eco- Fiction serves as a bridge between literature and ecological awareness, merging imaginative storytelling with environmental themes. It explores the intricate relationship between humans and the natural world, offering narratives that highlight environmental challenges, ecological disruptions and potential futures. By infusing fixtures with ecological perspectives, eco-fiction engages readers on an emotional and intellectual level, inspiring empathy, reflection and a deeper understanding of environmental issues. Through captivating characters and vivid settings, it brings ecological concepts to life, sparking conversations and fostering a sense of environmental stewardship. Eco-Fiction serves as a powerful tool to bridge the gap between literature and ecological consciousness, encouraging readers to consider their role in shaping a sustainable future.

Objective of this course :

1. Introduction to Eco-Fiction: Exploring the definition, history and significance of eco-fiction as a genre that combines literature and ecological awareness.
2. Environmental Themes: Analyzing the common environmental themes addressed in eco-fiction, such as climate change, biodiversity loss, environmental justice and sustainability.
3. Literary Analysis: Applying literary analysis technique to eco-fiction texts, examining narrative structures, character development and symbolism in relation to environmental themes.
4. Environmental Ethics: Examining the ethical implications raised in eco-fiction, including humanity's relationship with nature, the impact of human activities on the environment and the responsibilities of individuals and societies.
5. Eco-criticism: Exploring eco-critical approaches to analyze eco-fiction, examining the intersections between literature, ecology and environmentalism.
6. Cultural Perspectives: Examining eco-fiction from different cultural and regional perspectives, highlighting how environmental issues are portrayed and understood in various contexts.
7. Ecological Imagination: Studying how eco-fiction fosters ecological imagination by envisioning alternative ecological futures, utopias and dystopias.
8. Eco-feminism and Gender: Exploring the connections between eco-fiction and feminine perspectives, examining the representations of gender, power dynamics and ecological activism.
9. Indigenous Ecologies: Studying eco-fiction by indigenous authors and examining how indigenous knowledge and perspectives are incorporated into narratives of land, identity and ecological stewardship.
